

Authorization bill. But we also need to take preventive measures. Soon, I will be introducing legislation urging the President to limit the number of Soviet diplomats allowed in the United States to the number which we are allowed in the Soviet Union. I urge my colleagues to join me in cosponsoring this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I include for the Record an article from the "Atlanta Constitution" detailing Mr. Levchenko's comments:

[From the Atlanta Constitution, July 22, 1985]

40% OF RUSSIANS IN U.S. ARE SPIES, DEFECTOR CLAIMS

WASHINGTON.—A Russian master spy who defected to the West estimated Sunday that as many as 40 percent of Soviet diplomats and tourists traveling in the United States are intelligence officials.

To curtail such activities, said former KGB officer Stanislav Levchenko, the number of Soviet workers and visitors in the United States should be cut to the same number accepted by the Soviet Union.

"I think the act of making the number of U.S. diplomats and Soviet diplomats in Moscow and Washington equal can be a great help for reducing the scale of Soviet espionage," Levchenko said on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley."

"I would say from 35 to 40 percent of the Soviet officials, travelers, tourists in this country are intelligence officers," he said.

Levchenko, filmed in shadows so his face could not be seen, said the KGB has been trying to kill him since he defected to the United States after a job recruiting Soviet spies in Japan.

Sen. Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.), vice chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, said on the program: "I find when I'm giving speeches about the fact there's a lot of spies over here—a thousand KGB agents in this country, more than that actually—people think you're talking about some fantasy out of the '50s."

"Well it's not. We all say we've got to watch out for spies, but not one really does take it seriously."

Leahy urged House and presidential approval of a Senate amendment equalizing the U.S.-Soviet diplomatic corps in Washington and Moscow. "It doesn't mean you're going to stop spying; there's no way you can pass a law to stop Soviet spying. It simply means reducing the number in the diplomatic community and giving the FBI a fighting chance."

According to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the number of Soviet diplomats, trade officials and personnel based in the United States totals about 1,000—or more than three times the figure of about 300 American personnel stationed in the Soviet Union.

Since the arrest of former Navy Warrant Officer John Walker, his son, Michael, and two alleged accomplices charged with selling secrets to the Soviets, Leahy and other members of Congress have called for tougher penalties against convicted agents.

SECTION 302 BUDGET ALLOCATIONS

(Mr. GRAY of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous matter.)

Mr. GRAY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, in compliance with the resolution reported from the Committee on Rules I am submitting for the Record the allocation by House committee of budget authority, outlays, and entitlement authority for fiscal year 1986, and a revised allocation for fiscal year 1985. These two allocations are based upon, and entirely consistent with, the budget resolution (H. Con. Res. 152) passed by the House on May 23. These allocations are made pursuant to section 302(a) of the Congressional Budget Act, and are submitted now because the above cited resolution deems the House-passed budget resolution to be a conference agreement for the purposes of the Budget Act.
